Getting to Indianapolis

Indianapolis International Airport

- In addition to taxis (about a $35 fare), Uber, Lyft, car service, and the IndyGo public bus system, Go Express Airport Shuttle provides a clean, safe, affordable way of getting from the airport to downtown hotels. This express, non-stop bus service runs every 30 minutes from 5 am-11 pm for only $10 one way. For those meeting at airport-area hotels, most provide complimentary shuttles for guests.

Megabus

Amtrak & Greyhound Bus

Getting Around

- Transportation companies provide traditional sedan and limousine service from the airport to hotels, rental cars are conveniently located at the terminal, and taxis are plentiful, but other options are available as well. The Blue Indy all-electric car share is launching with electric cars strategically positioned around the city. A visitor can pick up a car at the airport, drive it downtown, and drop it off at another charging station near the convention center or host hotel. And Uber and Lyft provide app-based car service from knowledgeable city ambassadors. Requesting and paying for these rides are done via mobile phone.
- Bicycles: Away.com named Indianapolis one of the best cities to see from a bicycle, thanks to the city's flat landscape, innovative Indianapolis Cultural Trail, and abundance of bike paths. Some hotels offer guests complimentary bikes, or they are available at two convenient rental locations and through the new Pacers Bike Share Program.
- IndyGo runs limited buses through the city
