

AFSC-NC Intern Profiles

The AFSC Area Office of the Carolinas prioritizes leadership development of young people. Drawing from local universities, every semester AFSC-NC attracts a diverse group of students ready to learn how to put their values into action. This newsletter profiles all of our interns to get a glimpse of who they are, why they chose to work with AFSC and what they have learned.

Putri Powell is a recent graduate of Wake Forest University. Putri received a Bachelor of Arts in Anthropology/Pre Medical with a Minor in Religion and Chemistry. She is the former President of Interfaith Council at Wake Forest University. Her country of origin is Saran, Indonesia. Putri's community partner is Amnesty International in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Daphne Hines is currently attending the University of North Carolina at Greensboro pursuing a Bachelor of Science where she is a Dual Major in International/Global Studies and Political Science. Some of her hobbies include: going out with friends, shopping, and keeping up with current affairs and politics. Daphne wanted to be involved with AFSC-NC because it focuses on an array of issues ranging from immigration to conflict resolution. Her country of origin is the United States, and she is a community partner with the African Youth Task Force.

Haejin Song is a high school student at The Early College at Guilford. She is an AP scholar, and a staff writer for the Guilfordian newspaper. Haejin wanted to become involved with AFSC-NC after realizing that so many of her interests and volunteer work corresponded with AFSC's objectives and activities. She is very interested and passionate about humanitarian rights issues, international affairs, and immigration. Her country of origin is South Korea and her community partner is the Doris Henderson Newcomers School. She has also volunteered with The Pathways Center of Greensboro Urban Ministry, and Guilford County Schools' English as a Second Language Summer Program.
